COURTESY FOR ALL WATER USERS.

After you mate..

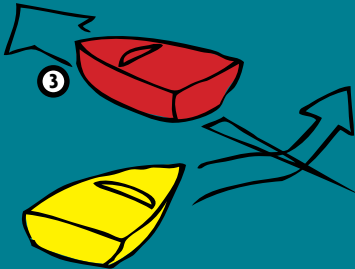

There are strict navigation rules that apply to all vessels on the water. In the interest of courtesy and safety, boat users are asked to observe the following rules:

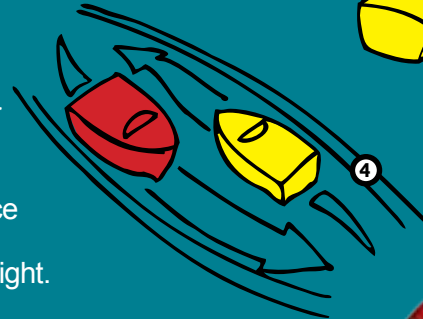

- ① When two power vessels are approaching head-on, or nearly head-on, each must alter course to starboard (right) and pass each others port (left) side.

- ② When overtaking another vessel, the vessel being passed has right of way and you must always keep clear of that vessel.

When a vessels is crossing your bow from starboard to port, that vessel has right of way and you should keep clear. Stop or reduce speed and pass under his stern. Give way to the vessel on your right.

When in a narrow channel keep to starboard.

- ⑤ Vessels proceeding after dark on inland waters should have navigation lights fitted or carry a torch to signal their presence to other vessels as appropriate.

- ⑥ Vessels operating in billabongs and other enclosed waterways should proceed at a speed which does not inconvenience or endanger other vessels.
